

TO KEEP COTTON OUT OF GERMANY

Italy Will Stop Shipments to Switzerland Unless She is Assured They Are For Domestic Consumption.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Reports to the state department that Italy proposes to stop all cotton going into Switzerland through Italian ports without guarantee that it will not get to Germany indicate to American officials that Italy is about to join the allies in their war with Germany.

It is regarded here that this step on the part of Italy is in alignment with the policy of the allies and is taken in furtherance of her own interests in anticipation of entry into the war.

The complaint that cotton destined for Switzerland has been held up was made to the state department by Paul Ritter, the Swiss minister, on information that the allies had stopped the cargoes. Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, was at the state department Friday and discussed the question with officials of the government. While the ambassador made no statement, it was learned later at the embassy that it was Italy and not the allies who had stopped the cotton.

There is no question, however, that Great Britain and Italy are in accord on the proposition that no cotton shall get into Switzerland unless she guarantees absolutely that it will not be re-exported. The British government expects to get Switzerland to agree to a proposition similar to the "overseas trust" for Denmark and Holland. Italy, it appears, became alarmed over the fact that for the first eight months of 1914-15 the exports from the United States to Switzerland were only $534,000 and in 1914-15 for the same period they trebled in value, the total being $1,529,000. The exports from the United States to Sweden and Denmark increased five times in value during the same period.
